

Prof.G.Mikunthan, University of Jaffna

Prof.G.Mikunthan is a Professor in Agricultural Biology and serving in the University for the past 26 years in various positions. He is currently serving as Dean of the Faculty of Graduate studies and formerly Dean of Faculty of Agriculture, University of Jaffna. He has been involved in teaching Integrated Pest Management, Vermitechnology, Agricultural Entomology, Agricultural Microbiology and Invertebrate Pathology and Microbial control. He served as Head of the Department and Director for Career Guidance. He has been teaching students reading to Bachelor's degree in Agriculture. He is serving as the Chairman of Siddha Medicine Board of Management, Research committee and Township Committee. He involved in the Subject Review Team to the evaluation of Export Agriculture degree programme at Uva wellassa University-2013. He is the Principal Investigator of National Thematic Research Program on Food security through National Science Foundation. He has published several research papers both in national and international Journals. He was awarded President Award for best research publication in 2013, National Award for popularization of Science, and Journalism Award for Excellence - 2013 for their series of articles on conserving natural resources and focusing on Environmental Protection by Sri Lanka Press Institute & Editors Guild of Sri Lanka. He is a recipient of Silver Jubilee award for writing Science articles in local newspaper. He also received best poster awards for poster presentation of research papers and gold medal for presentation of research papers.