Dr. Ruwan Wickramarachchi received a PhD in Computer Simulation from Sheffield Hallam University, UK and a MPhil specialized in Information Systems from Cambridge University, UK. He holds a Bachelor's degree in Industrial Management from the University of Kelaniya, Sri Lanka. Currently he is a Senior Lecture in Information Technology at the department of Industrial Management, University of Kelaniya. He is serving as the Head of Department of Industrial Management and served as Director, Information and Communication Technology Centre, University of Kelaniya. He has experience in research and teaching in Information Technology related subjects at undergraduate level as well as postgraduate level in Sri Lankan universities and foreign universities. He has over 40 research publications and his research findings are published in international journals, conferences and symposia. His research interests are Information Technology Management, systems integration, Simulation of discrete events, IT Project Management, etc. He also served and serving as external board member, consultant and a trainer.