

Professor G. Dayalatha Lekamge

Senior Professor

Dept. of Secondary and Tertiary Education, Faculty of Education, Open University of Sri Lanka
gdlek@ou.ac.lk

Professor G. Dayalatha Lekamge is currently working as the Senior Professor of the Secondary and Tertiary Education, Open University of Sri Lanka. She possesses B. Ed

(first class) honors and M.Phil in Education from the University of Colombo. Having received a Commonwealth Academic Staff Scholarship for 3 years and 3 months, she completed her Ph.D at the Open University of United Kingdom in 1993. During her 30 years of service in the Open University of Sri Lanka, she performed her duties as the Head, Department of Education (2006-2009), Dean of the Faculty of Education (2009-2012) and Acting Vice Chancellor (2009).

She was the team leader of a number of large scale research projects conducted by the Faculty of Education in relation to the fields of Distance Education, Teacher Education, Educational Management, Early Childhood Education and University Education. She presented papers in a number of local and International conferences and contributed in writing chapters of a number of books published for different purposes. Her book on Qualitative Research for Education was published in 2006. She had participated as a team member in a number of Subject Reviews, one Institutional Review and four reviews of EDP Programmes. Her research interests lie in the fields of Teacher Education, Distance Education, Early Childhood Education and Education Psychology.